ZBT May Be Team To Watch In Fall Football Intramurals, Despite Tiny Athletic Budget

ZBT may be the dark horse in this year's intramural football race. In this day and age of recruiting, programming, and general mechanizing of sports at all levels, it is often very difficult for a house with a very small athletic budget to bring together all the diverse elements that are needed to constitute a winning team. However, this year ZBT (and believe me it does have a very small athletic budget) may have done the seemingly impossible.

Fielding a team with depth at every position, Zebe won its first game against Seal and Serpent with ease. Scoring and defending at will, ZBT controlled every aspect of the game. With letterman at nearly every position, the team worked together smoothly with no one man standing out above the superior team play.

The defense has Bill Lovejoy and Dave Brown, both over 6 ft. and 200 pounds. Short but robust and quick Marty Fox, with great desire, holds up the middle. The linebackers are Barry Cramer and Steve Wasser, both with excel-

Alumni Invited To ZBT During Homecoming On October 30 Outstanding Cornell Team Will Meet Columbia On Polyturf

Cornell has scheduled Homecoming for October 30th, when the

Seniors Bid Farewell To ZBT; Brothers Wish Them Success

ZBT lost to the world some very loyal members when Cornell held commencement exercises in June. Although we don't know where all of them are, John Lay and Pete Saunders are back in town for their fifth year in engineering. Steve Rudy sits at home awaiting the draft. Don Sherman is at the University of Wisconsin in meteorology while his roommate Steve Lissberger is at the University of Washington. Joe Thanhauser—who knows! while Ken Wormser has taken up the position of alumnus in residence. We wish them luck and success... they'll need the former to acquire the latter.

lent speed. Steve Horn and Jerry Holthaus make up the defensive secondary. Horn, who is nicknamed by opposing teams as "killer," is known by his dynamic and vicious play. (continued on page two)

Big Red meets Columbia on the new polyturf, installed this summer on Schoellkopf Field. The Big Red is an exciting team this year with All-American Ed Marinaro continuing to roll up yardage and a good passing game being developed to back up his singular performance.

We at ZBT hope that our alumni will take the opportunity to see the team, enjoy Ithaca at one of the finest times of the year, and last but not least, visit ZBT for cocktails and dinner after the game. We would sincerely like to meet some of our alumni, and we promise to roll out the red carpet if you'll drop us a line that you're coming. (Write: Kenny Wormser, 1 Edgecliff Place, Ithaca, N.Y. 14850).

The game starts at 2 p.m. Tickets are $5 each and can be obtained through the Cornell Athletic Office.

INTRAMURALS. . .

The offense, lead by veteran quarterback John Lay, has the ability to score anywhere on the field. Receiving his fine tosses are Donny "Hook" Rosenthal and Jerry Holthaus. The first game saw Holthaus receive two TD passes from Lay. The offense rolled up 251 yards total offense in a fine afternoon.

So perhaps then in this year of incipient upsets ZBT may be the team to watch.

Believe it or not: two Zebes dropped by this summer while here for Alumni University Week.

Did you know: The Zebe house and Fall Creek Gorge are on the front of Ithaca's official map.

Bridge And Curry Chicken Prevail During Summer Months
As Three Brothers And Four Indian Students Live At Edgecliff

Bridge, curry chicken, and fair weather prevailed all summer at ZBT, although not necessarily in that order. This summer the Zebe house had lodging within its walls four Indian students who are doctoral candidates, and three brothers.

Bridge was the order of the day, week, month, and as one can infer, all summer. It is amazing how a few six packs of beer and a bridge game can make a most profitable experience of a summer's evening. And even Charles Goren would be proud of the new convention devel-

ALUMNI REPORT. . .

Reuben Garner '42 writes: "Last year I finally finished my Ph.D. in European History, just in time for the big job shortage for college teachers. I have a temporary job at Brockport, a book in the works, and several presentations in preparation for historical societies. I must say teaching beats working. It's almost as much fun as going to college. My wife, Mary, has been busy all these years running a local theater group. She has also been a kingpin in the local music association and recently turned down an offer to run for town supervisor in the suburb where we live." Reuben also informs us that his two daughters, Susan and Cookie, are grown now. Susan graduated from Brandeis last year and is now trying to break into elementary education in Boston. Cookie will be a sophomore this fall. "You ought to find out about Joe Alexander '42. He's doing all sorts of fascinating things that I wish I could understand. His address: 82 Miller Road Newton Centre, Mass. (499 Claybourne Rd., Rochester, N.Y. 14618) oped here - the infrequent non-psycho.

However, man cannot live by bridge alone (although he may subsist quite contentedly for a long time) so, courtesy of the Indian fellows, curry chicken was most often utilized to satisfy the need to eat. Curry chicken, let me say, satisfies this need in a most curious manner. If one is Indian it satisfies hunger, if one is not Indian it generally kills hunger. Beer is helpful in large quantities for eating curry chicken, for alcohol has a marked propensity to anesthetize the taste buds. However caution must be exercised, for if large quantities of curry chicken are eaten the stomach may become pickled. Bridge then is helpful in taking one's mind off one's stomach.

Freshmen Girls Are Invited To Tea At One Edgecliff

As we get ready to go to press the Social Chairmen Ken Rubin and Jim Trono are decorating the house for our annual freshman tea. The theme this year is Alice in Wonderland and it centers around the tea party of Lewis Carroll's pen. A multitude of teas will be served to 32 hopefully intellectually stimulating beauties, after which a seated dinner will commence.

Zebe takes pleasure in carrying on its traditional tea. As many of you may realize, "teas," for the most part, introduce a coed to intoxicants. We cannot participate in such debauchery. Thus the White Rabbit will do the introductions and take the rain coats (it always rains), and the Mad Hatter will pour. The Ithaca Journal will send a photographer to cover the coming out of Connie Coed.

This is the first social function of the year. Many people will pass through our looking glass and a good time should be had by all.

We suggest that you make motel reservations early, since this is a busy weekend at Cornell.

Homecoming is not the only time that alumni are welcome at ZBT. We hope that you'll drop by at anytime to meet the brothers and compare notes on experiences at 1 Edgecliff .

James Greenberg '62 is in the math department at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

KAPPA ALUMNI REPORT ON THEIR ACTIVITIES

Joel D. Levinson '59 writes: "I am leaving academic medicine to go into private practice after a rewarding year as assistant professor of medicine at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee. After an absence of ten years, we are returning East where I will be joining a clinic in Springfield, New Jersey and practicing gastroenterology." Joel is married to the former Bobby Fineman '60 and they have three children.

Leonard M. Harlan '58 writes that on January 8, 1971 his first child, Joshua David, was born. "Lenny" works in New York City for Harlan, Betke & Myers, Inc. as an investment banker. Lenny also writes that Gerry Wedren '58 was appointed as securities commissioner of the State of Ohio. "Before he moved to Columbus, he lived in our apartment building in New York City." (185 West End Ave., New York, New York 10023)

From Near and Far, ZBTs Return Their News

Don Sherman, Arts '71, phoned last night to fill us in on grad school at the University of Wisconsin. A meteorology major, Don seems to have taken the go ahead, clear skies, signals from the nearby breweries. Don mentioned that David Tassig Arts '71, is in the city planning department of University of California, Berkeley. Don is eagerly awaiting Cornell news and visitors and promises to "drop by" this semester. Don's address is: 121 West Gilman St., Apt. 805 B, Madison, Wisconsin 53706.

Abraham S. Bordon '14 informs us that he received the Humanitarian Award at the National Conference of Christians and Jews on April 20, 1971. (887 Farmington Ave., West Hartford, Conn. 06119)

John Efroymsen '49 writes that he joined Sinclair a year ago. Sinclair manufactures detergents, bleach, and other household products sold through supermarkets. "EF" 's job includes product development and quality control. "Last December, I finally got an MBA from the University of Toledo. Getting a degree every twenty-one years is becoming a drag!" (5154 Saddlecreek, Toledo, Ohio 43623)

Carl Austin '62 writes that he and his family have moved into a new home at 31 Bonwit Rd., Port Chester, N.Y.

Leo L. Landauer '27 is a consulting engineer with Leo L. Landauer & Associates, Inc. in Dallas, Texas. (9345 Sunnybrook Lane, Dallas, Texas 75220)

Kevin McEnery, I.E. '70, BPA '71, has forsaken the shores of Lake Erie and has become a city man. Kevin is now an accountant with Arthur Anderson. He was in Ithaca in the middle of September on business and indicated he loves the work. Aside from his assigned accounts Kevin decided to check out the potentials at Jim's, Fall Creek house and Elba. He chagrins the closing of AE Phi. "The closing of a sorority is a knife in the groin," he said. Kevin's address is: 425 E. 63rd Apt. 10D East, N.Y., N.Y.

Roger De Vries, Arts '70, and former WVBR vice-president came up to the Alma Mater for the football opener with Colgate. (We won 38-20). Roger brought with him his wife and companion of July 4, Andrea De Vries, nee Meisel. Roger is now a trainee with duPont, Glor and Forgan, Inc. in New York and Andrea is teaching second grade in their home town of Demarest, N.J. The De Vries hope to return for Homecoming. Their address is: 1624 Valley St., Apt. 1D, Ft. Lee, N.J.

Dennis Marantz, '70 fell to his death in an accident at Taughannock Falls State Park this summer. Sympathy may be sent to his parents: 1002 Sunset Trail, Omaha, Nebraska.

Jim Smith, Arts '69, BPA '71 was married in August to Lynn Johnson in Hartford, Conn. Lynn, an Elmira College grad, was one of the sweetest of familiar female faces to grace the house in the past year. Zebes attending the lovely ceremony were Kevin McEnery, Joel Moss, Don Sherman and Sam Salkin. Mr. & Mrs. Smith are now residing in Cincinnati, Ohio where Lynn is teaching school and Jim is with Proctor and Gamble. A recent letter from Jim extols the virtues of his product and company. It's really great to know someone who loves his work. We're all glad that Lynn and Jim are so happy. Jim tells us that he subscribes to The Sun and may be up for Homecoming. His address is: 15 Independence House 200 W. Galbraith Rd., Cincinnati, Ohio 45215.

Ed Ginorio has left Cornell for a year and his brother Felix who is now at Ithaca College tells us that he may do some para-professional medical work on the Indian reservation. Ed's home address is 14 Richbelle Rd., Scarsdale, N.Y.

Dave Silver '71 pops in and out of town. He's a first year med student at the upstate facility in Syracuse. He was last seen driving a furnished van.

Steve Rudy, C.E. '71, returned to Edgecliff Place for a week this fall to "hack around" with the guys. "Rude" claims the life at Zebe looks even better after a tour of real world. During his stay, Rude spent the better part of his time playing hearts and singing songs from the '50's with alumnus in residence Kenny Wormser. Rude has a job and is now waiting to be drafted. In case of emergency write: Newark, Delaware.
